

TECHNOLOGY PRODUCT DEVELOPMENT

By DornerWorks

Is the solution to growing your business in sight?

Or are you facing the fog of new technology?

With new products and added features, you could corner the market and supercharge your business with enhanced revenue streams.

Product development like this can be challenging, but it doesn't have to be intimidating.

We have confidence you can succeed, and we're here to help you do it!

Our clients succeed with a partnership for growth

Growing companies like Traeger and Dexter are already experiencing greater product success, and more visibility in their respective markets, by connecting their products to the Internet of Things.

Traeger is expanding their line of wirelessly operated grills and dominating a decades-old industry with groundbreaking new options. Dexter achieved an innovative new method of controlling and monitoring their machines, along with a web-integrated system, setting their industrial washers far apart from those of other commercial laundry vendors.

Delight yours with outstanding products

Whether it's connecting your product to the cloud, hardware or software challenges, even testing requirements, you can plan, develop, and launch your project faster, and with greater confidence, by working with DornerWorks.

You might be concerned about the ROI of potential products. So are we, and we're going to work through the details with you, ideate a product roadmap, help you impress your customers, and put those concerns to rest.

Traeger, Dexter, and many others have reached their goals through a Technology Product Development partnership with DornerWorks, and you will, too.
